BIG COMBINE FELL THROUGH

Startling Testimony Given in Suit Alleging Violation of Trust Law.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—An attempt by the American Telephone & Telegraph Company to absorb independently with an appraised value of $400,000,000 was made a year and a half ago according to G. B. Hubbell, president of the Federal Telephone and Telephone Company of Buffalo, who testified here today for the government in its prosecution of the American Company on charges of violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.
Mr. Hubbell asserted that Theodore N. Vall, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company and a director of the American company, and H. P. Davidson member of J. P. Morgan & Co., tried to engineer the huge deal. Mr. Hubbell said that Mr. Vall appeared at a meeting of the owners of thirty of the larger independent telephone companies in Chicago, about 18 months ago and suggested that there might be a division of territory by the American and independent companies. The plan was intended to stop profit cutting competition, the witness said.

"It happened that I was one of the independent telephone people at this meeting," said Mr. Hubbell. "Mr. Vall talked quite a while and pointed out the advantages of a division of the nation into various territories, and the assignment of either the American company or a group of the independent companies to exclusive control of one or another of those territories."
"The upshot of his talk was the appointment of a committee of seven, of which I was one to confer further with Mr. Vall and also with Mr. Davidson in New York on a possible method of adopting such a scheme."

DR. SETH JONES FOR COLLECTOR OF INTERNAL REVENUE

Washington, Nov. 20.—President Wilson made these nominations today: Collector of internal revenue for New Hampshire, Seth W. Jones of New Hampshire; Ambassador to Russia, Henry A.

Pindell of Peoria, Ill. Secretary of the embassy at Madrid, Fred Morris Dearing of Missouri. Appraiser of merchandise for Maine and New Hampshire, Seth F. Clark of Maine.

RETAIL PRICES ON THE CLIMB

Washington, Nov. 20.—Retail prices of food were higher Aug. 15 than they had been at any other time during the last 23 years, according to figures of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, issued today.

Retail prices of the principal articles of food in 40 important industrial cities, gathered and compiled by experts, show that during the year 12 of the 15 articles advanced in price, while only three declined.

Comparison of retail prices on Aug. 15, 1913, with prices on the same date in 1912, shows potatoes advanced 20 per cent; bacon, 18.8 per cent; smoked ham, 17.6 per cent; eggs, 12.6 per cent; round steak, 11.5 per cent; sirloin steak, 10.2 per cent; pork chops, 9.3 per cent; beef, 8.7 per cent; lard, 8.1 per cent; rib roast, 7.9 per cent; butter, 5.7 per cent, and milk, 2.7 per cent. Sugar declined 7.9 per cent; wheat flour, 5.5 per cent, and cornmeal 2.7 per cent.

Compared with average prices for the 10-year period 1890 to 1899, every article for which prices were noted, with the exception of sugar, advanced. Bacon advanced 139.8 per cent, pork chops 124.5 per cent, round steak 79.3 per cent, rib roast 76.5 per cent, potatoes 76.2 per cent, lard 73.2 per cent, lard 69.8 per cent, eggs 66.4 per cent, corn meal 60.0 per cent, butter 41.9 per cent.

When the price of each of the 16 articles of food is weighted according to average consumption in workmen's families, retail prices on Aug. 15, 1913, were 6.3 per cent above the average price for the 10-year period 1890 to 1899; 8.0 per cent above the price on Aug. 15, 1912, and 14.9 per cent above the price on Aug. 15, 1911.

THE GREAT NEW YORK SUCCESS "BOUGHT AND PAID FOR"

Begins at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, Next Monday, November 24th.

The remarkable success attained by "Bought and Paid for" which is to begin the seventh week of its Boston engagement at the Majestic Theatre on Monday, next, is not to be wondered at after one has witnessed this thoroughly American play by George Broadhurst. It is further proof that Boston and New England audiences like to see presented on the stage something that is a part of real life, especially when it contains a combination of merit and heartaches such as is experienced by every true man and woman.

An audience who can entertain his audience and send them away with a new idea and one which will provide them some choice food for wholesome thought is the man who will fill the theatre at every performance. Such an author is Mr. Broadhurst. He writes about men and women among whom he lives, and who are, therefore, the same individuals that make up his audiences.

Could anyone ask for a more interesting story than that which is told in "Bought and Paid for"? Here is a rich man who has been entirely too busy in making a huge fortune to think about matrimony. Suddenly he discovers that he is in love with the pretty telephone operator to whom he entrusted the work of getting through his long distance calls and who has proved that she possesses an abundance of the womanly qualities.

The play is accepted. Their marriage which lifts her from a life of toil and poverty to comfort and luxury, proves a happy one, until the husband begins coming home intoxicated on frequent occasions. When the wife seeks gently to rebuke him, the husband reminds her that he bought and paid for her. This is the situation at the end of the second act. How it is worked out to complete and satisfactory solution is most cleverly revealed in the two remaining acts.

The excellent cast includes such stage favorites as Charles McHenry, Kathleen MacDonell, Marie Nordstrom, Frank Craven and Allen Atwell.

LARGE EAST BOSTON AREA FOR PORT.

Directors Decide on Adding 2,500,000 Square Feet for Development.

By formal vote at their meeting today, the Port Directors went on record for taking two and one-half million square feet of land and flats at East Boston, lying between Maverick street and Wood Island Park, and separating the Commonwealth's holdings at Jeffries Point from the mainland. This means that steps may be taken soon to bulkhead and start filling and preparing these large holdings for waterfront shipping industrial and warehouse purposes.

NO LETTING DOWN OF BARS BY LICENSE COMMISSIONERS

Concord, Nov. 20.—Much disappointment is felt among the "wets" and also among certain Democrats over the policy of the new license commission. It had been whispered around that there was to be a letting down in the right rules that had been adopted by the commission in the past, and when the bill was before the house abolishing the old commission this was one of the levers used to secure its passage. It was repeatedly stated that the old commission had been too stiff and had abrogated unto itself altogether too much power.

It is developed in the appointment of Chairman Edmund Sullivan of Berlin, who by the way absolutely dominates the commission, that those who expected a "let down" are going to be most bitterly disappointed, and that Sullivan is absolutely adamant and a greater stickler for technicalities than any man that ever sat upon the commission.

Under the policy of Chairman Sullivan not a single new license will be issued for the establishment of a saloon during the present license year, which does not end until May 1, next. He is unalterably opposed to the opening of any more places in New Hampshire for the sale of liquor, and he has given several men, who were close personal and political acquaintances of his, a terrible jolt on account of this fact. He has even gone so far as to hold up a license which was already to be approved by the old board when they went out of existence.

Underneath the surface, there is much grumbling and growing animosity toward those who were led to believe that the wiping out of the old commission meant a less degree of laxity in the enforcement of the license law and the establishment of a number of new places.

It is said that a movement has been started to have Mr. Sullivan appoint-

Justice of the superior court to succeed Judge William A. Pinner of Laconia, who has been elevated to the supreme bench, in order to get him off the license commission, so that a man can be named who is not so radical in his views and who at least will favor the opening of additional places in the prescribed liquor zones of the cities.

There is a rumor circulation here in Concord that Mr. Sullivan already thinks Manchester has too many saloons and that when those up an Amherst and Concord streets are refused licenses on account of the opening of the new Carpenter Memorial Library, it will be a good opportunity to decrease the number of places where liquor is sold, and that as a result many of the old dealers will not be allowed to open up in new territory.

IF CHILD IS CROSS, FEVERISH AND SICK

Look Mother! If tongue is coated, cleanse little bowels with "California Syrup of Figs."

Children have this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

HER OWN BATTERY.
Woman Who Gets a Shock From Any Piece of Metal.

"My wife is continually getting shocked," remarked a clerk at a Broadway hotel yesterday, "No, it is not anything that I do that causes the sensation. I believe she is a living storage battery."

"I never paid any attention to the matter until this morning. For some time past she has complained that she could not touch metal without getting a severe shock. This morning when I heard her scream as she attempted to light the range I decided to make an investigation."

"I told her to touch the gas jet. She jumped away from it with a shriek. Then she started to open the broom closet, which is of metal, and she yelled again. She picked up the kettle, and let it fall with a cry. Then I questioned her, and found that she had been getting the shocks for months."

"You see about a year ago my wife began to take electric treatments and I suppose she had about twenty-five. Apparently she has become almost as highly charged as I have by the doctor. She told me this morning that if I had not said that every time she took hold of anything metallic, if she did not put a cloth in her hand first, she would almost double up at the contact. So now I am figuring upon some easy way of trying to rid her of the electricity she is carrying about, which really makes domestic life uncomfortable for her."

"Why, you ought to be able to reduce your household expenses a bit," remarked the cashier.

"How's that?" inquired the clerk.
"You ought never to have to buy any matches, for one thing," said the cashier, who flatters himself that he is a bit of a scientist. "Do you know that your wife could light the gas or the range simply by touching her finger to the jet?" That would furnish a spark and that is all that is needed."

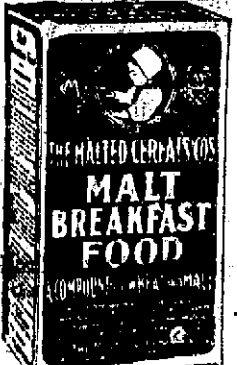

"I didn't think of that," said the clerk after a moment.

"The only trouble might be that your wife couldn't easily get her hand away in time from being burned by the gas taking fire," the cashier went on.

"I guess I can afford to buy matches," rejoined the clerk, with dignity, and coolness reigned in the front office.

Editorial 28 Business 37

Portsmouth, N. H., Friday, November 21, 1913.

Originated in This City.

The Boston Herald has the following to say in regard to the Old Home Week, which originated in this state and has been taken up by many other states:

"The growth of Old Home Week custom is interestingly revealed in the pamphlet of the Fifteenth Annual Old Home Week Association of the State of New Hampshire recently published. New Hampshire originated the custom in 1899 at the instance of Gov. Frank W. Rollins. Since then it has spread not only over New England but to other parts of the country and even into some foreign lands. The growth of New Hampshire has been consistent. Its people have realized the value of the Old Home Week from a commercial point of view entirely apart from the sentimental, though the latter is, of course, the actuating motive in bringing the men of the Granite State back to their native hills. New Hampshire's Old Home Week has been set apart by act of Legislature as the week beginning the third Saturday in August, and a definite amount has been appropriated by the state to further its observance. During the last summer's reunion over sixty cities and towns held local celebrations and there were over forty family association reunions. Enthusiasm and good cheer were universal. There was nothing of the pumped-up and artificial enthusiasm that is apt to prevail even at college reunions. The Old Home Week movement has come to stay. It has assumed a definite function in the life of the New Hampshire community."

The Herald is very much in error when it makes the assertion that the Old Home Week idea was originated by Governor Frank W. Rollins. The first home coming was held in Portsmouth in 1856, many years before Governor Rollins advanced the idea, and its inception was due to the late B. P. Shillaber and other sons of Portsmouth residing in Boston at that time. The idea was taken up by the absent sons in New York and the home coming was a great success, and several others were held by this city, before Governor Rollins advocated the state idea of an Old Home Week. Thus it can be plainly seen that the idea did not originate with Governor Rollins.

Should Be on the Job.

If, as reported, the neglect of his duties by Secretary Bryan is likely to cause the resignation of Prof. John Bassett Moore from the state department, then reform cannot be urged too promptly upon Bryan. It is high time that he quit running away from his official duties and stuck to his post. The country wants a secretary of state who will attend to his official duties first of all. Lecturing is altogether a minor consideration.—Fitchburg Sentinel.

For National Labor Laws.

All our laws affecting labor should be made by Congress. They should go into effect in every state of the union at the same time and upon the same conditions. Then the most advanced states would not be exposed to the unfair competition of employers in states or where the labor laws are not enforced.—Lawrence Telegram.

Speaks Well for Our State.

The announcement that President Wilson and family are to come to Cornish another season is very gratifying news to every resident of New Hampshire, irrespective of his political faith. The fact that the President is to return to the Granite State for a second summer certainly speaks well for the charms of dear old New Hampshire.

It certainly seems very unsportsmanlike on the part of the Dover football team not to give the local team a return game in this city, in place of the one that was cancelled owing to inclement weather. Evidently the Dover team is showing its yellow streak.

Having come in contact with so many grangers in Manchester during the past two weeks, it is to be hoped that Colonel Condon of the Union will profit by the knowledge gained and that his farm will produce a bumper crop in the year of our Lord 1914.

Haverhill, Mass., has a new daily which comes out with the appearance of being a healthy kid. It is the Haverhill Herald, and it is full of live news and with a generous amount of advertising. It should succeed and it has our best wishes.

Tomorrow will witness the clash between the blue and the crimson. May the best team win.

WILL SPEAK ON MISSIONARY WORK.

Miss Hollbrook of Assisi is to speak at the Y. P. C. E. meeting at the Methodist church this evening of her missionary work in Assisi. All interested are cordially invited to attend.

TO OUR ADVERTISERS!

Owing to the demand made on the advertising columns of The Herald at the present time, merchants desiring extra space must make application for the same at least 24 hours in advance.

CURRENT OPINION

Mud Slinging Is Preventing Our Industries From Expanding.

Unnecessary agitation, demagoguery and mud slinging are preventing the normal expansion of the country's business and industries.

Undoubted prosperity for the nation lies in the future, but at the present time doubt and distrust have frightened capital away from many enterprises; also the tendency in public discussions to treat success as an offense and to consider the possession of wealth, however honestly acquired, as wrong is a present day evil which is having a broad influence on the relations of capital and labor.

Capital, always timid, has been seriously affected by this unreasonable and uncalled for agitation and attack. It is becoming almost impossible to obtain on fair terms, on good security and at a reasonable rate of interest the necessary capital to equip or liberally maintain going and successful properties, to say nothing of the additions and extensions which the interests of this great and growing country demand.

The stability of business, which is essential to its proper and reasonable growth and success, has been interfered with. Our great and growing population can use our products. It needs food and clothes and material to build, and it is willing and anxious to buy them. It is in need of railroads and ships with the best equipment to carry these products from one point to another, and it is willing to pay fair rates for the service. Laborers are willing to work at a reasonable wage, and employers are anxious to furnish work and to pay liberal compensation. Producers in all departments of industry wish to satisfy the demands for their products at fair prices. And those who are able are quite ready to furnish the necessary capital provided they can be certain of protection against loss or risk.—Elbert H. Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation.

FIGHT ON THREE CURRENCY BILLS

presented by the republicans, Senators Nelson, Weeks, Hiram, McLean and Crawford, and one by Senator Hitchcock.

All three of the proposed bills contemplate the issuance of a currency secured by the prime commercial paper held by the banks of the country. Each proposes the establishment of reserve banks, which will issue the currency in exchange for commercial paper to the banks, which will hold the reserves behind their deposits, mobilized for use in any emergency, and which will re-discount the paper held by banks in the system, thus keeping available always ample credit and currency for use in ward off financial crisis. Each bill proposes to put the entire system under the control of a Federal reserve board to be appointed by the President.

Divide on Number of Banks.

Although agreeing as to the purposes to be accomplished by the proposed legislation, the three plans differ in nearly every other respect. As it passed the House the Glass-Owen bill proposed the creation of 12 regional banks. The democrats of the Senate committee and that down to eight, the minimum number the President was willing to accept.

The republicans reduced the number to four, holding that the smaller number could more effectively concentrate the reserves of the country.

The 12 regional banks proposed by the House bill would be owned by the banks, through compulsory subscription to the stock, and the banks would elect six of the nine directors of each regional institution.

This plan was retained by the democrats of the Senate committee, although it was further provided that if the banks did not furnish enough capital to run the system, the stock might be sold to the public.

Senator Hitchcock's and the republicans' plan provides that the reserve banks' capital should be subscribed by the public, the banks taking whatever part the public would not take and that the Government, through the Federal reserve board, should appoint five of the nine directors of each regional bank. This was the proposition which split the Senate committee into two camps.

Reserves and Rediscout Limits.

Back of the bills materially reduces the present reserve which National banks must hold against deposits. The House bill would fix the reserve at 12 per cent. for country banks and 15 per cent. for banks in present reserve cities.

These rates were retained by the Administration forces in the Senate committee, but the republicans' wing cut down the reserve of the city banks to 10 per cent.

In the House bill the paper made eligible for rediscout and as a basis for currency is commercial paper, based on actual merchandising transactions, maturing in not less than 90 days. This provision was retained by the democrats in the Senate committee, but the republicans broadened it materially.

Under their bill a part of the member banks' redemptions may be made in paper maturing up to six months. The provision gives the advantage to banks with small capital, which have so-called short time paper.

regional banks in their vaults and in the Treasury against the new circulation is fixed at 33 1/3 per cent. In both the House bill and the measure drawn by the Senate committee democrats. The republican draft, however, provides for a 35 per cent. reserve with a tax on reserves below that figure down to a minimum of 25 per cent.

The House bill provides for redemption of the new notes in "gold or lawful money" at the Treasury or at the reserve banks. The Owen amendment would make the notes redeemable in gold at the Treasury and gold or lawful money at the banks, and the republican draft provides for a straight gold redemption in both instances.

Both the House bill and the Owen bill would allow country banks to loan on one year farm mortgages. The republicans amended this to allow banks to loan one-third of their time deposits on five-year farm mortgages.

Steering Committee Meets Today.

The republicans eliminated from the bill a provision which would have required National banks to maintain separate departments to handle savings account business. Numerous other differences, principally on minor matters or relating to the language of the measure, are apparent.

To prevent a disturbance of financial conditions while bank reserves are being shifted to the proposed new regional banks, the Owen bill would require that banks may deposit commercial paper and currency as part of their reserve, under certain conditions. The Hitchcock-republican bill would extend the life of the Aldrich-Vreeland Emergency law for another year.

The democratic steering committee will meet tomorrow in an effort to arrange a program for the debate, and to determine how the bills shall be handled on the floor of the Senate. The debate is expected to open early next week.

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN THE HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Can Tell Brush It Through Hair

Gray hair however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantage of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of Weyl's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens as naturally and evenly. You're not a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two its natural color is restored, and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, any you appear years younger.

MOTHER'S WORRY OVER PRODIGAL SON

Makes His Death An Occasion of Thanksgiving

Mrs. Blackstone had married very young and had one son. A handsome, care-devil type of youth with the ability to make or mar his own life and the lives of those about him. Unfortunately he chose to mar them.

"My girlhood had been very wordly and cramped," she began and we knew that she was going to tell the whole story. "My parents were the old fashioned, narrow minded type, and when I met Mr. Gladstone I was glad to marry him or anyone else who would take me away from those narrow surroundings. I was married several years—none too happy ones—before Jack was born. I did not want a child and the little fellow was most unwelcome. Even as a baby he was hard to control and as a baby he was wilful and headstrong, constantly being punished at home and at school. Slowly, very slowly, it seemed to me he grew to manhood. Most of you know the rest. He was bad all through—but he was mine.

"None of you can appreciate the awful uncertainty of going to bed 365 nights in the year wondering whether or he would come home dead or alive, or whether the authorities would get him. I hope none of you will ever know the terror of the constant quarrels between the unforgiving father and the prodigal son, the constant pleadings of the mother for the undeserving boy. Only those who have lived through it can know. I never thought that I would know peace or happiness, but—and I say this believing in a God who will one day come to judge me—when they brought the dead body of my boy home and I saw him lowered into his grave I was at peace.

"It is an awful thing for a woman—no mother to say; but the moment that my boy went back to God was the happiest moment in my life. It stands out supreme. I was afraid that I would be first taken—and oh, the awful dread of anything him behind! He never seemed to be long down here and now I know that no harm can come to him, that a power stronger even than a mother's love is guiding him. And because of that I am happy and at peace, waiting only for the time to come when I can go to my boy."—E. S.

The most interesting hostilities, however, were near the circuses and amphitheatres. The shrewd and generally dishonest owners had a double purpose in selecting that situation. It was well chosen for the patronage of the huge crowds that went to the circuses on holidays to see the fights between wild animals and the gladiatorial combats, and the landlords could buy conveniently and reasonably those animals that had been slaughtered during the day, to be served on their tables.

Thus a merry-maker might witness a battle between a lion and a tiger in the amphitheatre in the afternoon; and if he went to a nearby hotel, might find parts of the same lion or tiger in his stew for dinner. A bear's steak was considered a great delicacy in Rome.

The furnishings of the common room which in those hotels served as dining room, parlor, and bedroom were severely simple. A few wooden tables, a few wooden benches, and a sort of elevated throne were the only pieces of furniture. On the raised chair or throne sat the owner of the inn, and watched over his guests, and probably his belongings.

A large number of hostilities displayed upon the ceilings of their common rooms, a painting representing a rooster. The painting bore an inscription, the spirit of which will never grow old: "When the cock crows then we will we give credit!"

That is the one link that binds the crude, uncomfortable tavern of ancient Rome to the elaborate hotel of the present day.

Mind of the hostilities and taverns of Rome says Lambert de Gaillet, in "Ungeat de Meurs" at Autretols, were situated along the Appian Way. Some of them were passable. It was at one of the better ones that Cicero used frequently to stop and write his letters.

TO BE USED FOR REPAIR WORK

Naval Station at New Orleans
Likely to Be Reopened for Repair of Smaller Vessels.

A dispatch from Washington says: Although he has not announced his decision, Acting Secretary Roosevelt, who returned today from an inspection of the New Orleans Navy Yard, is expected to recommend the reopening of that plant for the repair of the Navy's lighter draft vessels.

The Navy Department favors repairing smaller vessels on duty in South Atlantic waters in some Southern yard instead of sending them to other yards, sometimes as far as Portsmouth, N. H. Mr. Roosevelt found the machinery at New Orleans in perfect condition and he thinks the yard could be reopened with profit and without a large expenditure.

The Assistant Secretary also visited the Pensacola station, especially with a view to determining its fitness as a site for a concentration camp for marines. The department has decided to send about 300 marines to Pensacola at the conclusion of the base maneuvers at Culebra and Guantanamo. About 200 will be quartered on their ship while the remainder occupy the marine barracks. Later the Pensacola station will be developed into an important concentration station for advanced base operations.

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil Clears
Gas Out Quickly.

Thousands of distressed persons who go back to using castor oil now that it is tasteless.

There is nothing like Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil to clear out the "inner man." It is a relief for the pain and bloating of gas.

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil is a new and remarkable discovery. The nauseous taste and smell are taken out, but nothing else. It's all of the oil, but none of the taste, and so well purified that it acts better, without gripping, and does not upset the stomach. Children take it readily.

Women and workers indoors find Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil a quick relief from the distress of poor digestion, and it is a perfect laxative. Kellogg's is not mixed or flavored, just a true, tasteless castor oil.

Ask for Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil at any drug store. Note old in bulk, but in 25c or 50c bottles, trade-marked with a green castor leaf bearing the signature, Kellogg's. Made only by Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., oil refiners.

AFTER THE LOBSTER MEN

Fish Commissioner Hoyt
Makes Another Trip in Quest of "Shorts."

Fish and Game Commissioner Chauncey B. Hoyt made another onslaught on the lobster fishermen this morning. On Thursday, Mr. Hoyt endeavored to hire several motor boats, but all of the crafts were hauled up or out of commission, according to their owners. This morning he procured one, and started down the river about 9 o'clock to meet the fishermen as they were returning from hauling their lobster pots. The first was encountered off Pierce Island and help up, but nothing in the understudy line was found. Various loids were held up. The boat operated by George H. Doherty was found to contain two short lobsters and the owner was ordered into court tomorrow morning. Edward Ackley refused to stop at the command of Commissioner Hoyt and his boat was chased to Commercial wharf, where her cargo of lobsters was measured. None were found under the prescribed size.

The word that Commissioner Hoyt was out was passed along the line and it is said that quite a number of short lobsters found their way back to the briny deep again.

VISITED OLD LADIES' HOME

Members of Court Street Church Leave Tokens of
"Good Cheer."

The Court Street Society of the Court Street Christian Church gave a donation party on Thursday evening from 7:30 to 10 o'clock at the Home for Aged Women. A large number attended and much interest was displayed among the party. The donation included dainties of all kinds, jellies, preserves, squashes, vegetables, apples, fancy groceries, provisions and a barrel of flour, which made about three dozen bundles in all.

Rev. Percy Warren Caswell arranged a very novel entertainment entitled "Evening of Songs," in which he introduced some of the more modern hymns, such as "My Lord and I," "God Will Take Care of Me," and "Somebody Cares." The entire company sang the first two songs, whereas the last number was rendered by the quartet, including Miss Lucinda Joy, soprano; Miss Gladys Randall, alto; Mr. Orlano Ham, bass; Rev. Percy Warren Caswell, tenor.

This was followed by singing of old fashioned hymns such as "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," "How Firm a Foundation," "Jesus Lover of My Soul," "Rock of Ages." Before each hymn was sung, Rev. Mr. Caswell related brief incidents concerning each hymn, the origin, author, inspiration, and some places where the words have helped someone during their life, when on the ocean, in prison, etc., which proved very interesting.

Miss Lucy Price told very interesting and humorous stories. Miss Ella P. Conrad presided at the piano.

Much gratitude is extended to the society which afforded so much pleasure at the Home for Aged Women.

DON'T DOPE A PUNY CHILD

Parents—don't give that puny, ailing under-weight child any of those so-called tonics, containing alcohol or dangerous drugs; such stuff won't give relief and health to grown people, let alone children. Its purpose is to stimulate for a short time after each dose, just as whiskey or morphine does, thus making you believe that it is doing real good.

Give that child something that will really build it up—replenish the wasted tissues—feed the stunted, dwarfed, puny muscles—make it lively, strong, well—full of animal spirits children are meant to have. Give it Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion.

Rexall Olive Oil is wholesome, nourishing, free from alcohol and dangerous drugs. It is the ideal nerve, blood, and body builder. It does the work it is planned to do better than any other medicine we know of, and our faith in it is so great that we not only urge you to use it and give it to your children—but we guarantee that it will do all that we say it will or cost you nothing.

Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion should be given to children who catch cold easily. Begin right now, and see it to build up the child's system to such strong health that it can resist colds, croup, grippe, bronchitis, catarrh, pneumonia and other cold weather diseases. You who are weak and run down, and you who are well now, but are liable to suffer from various cold weather ailments use Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion to get and keep well and strong. For the tired out, run down, nervous, emaciated or debilitated—the convalescing—growing children—aged people—it is a sensible aid to renewed strength, better spirits, glowing health.

Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion—king of the celebrated Rexall remedies—is freedom from sickness of you and your family. You'll be as enthusiastic about it as we are when you have noted its pleasant taste, its strengthening, invigorating building-up, disease-preventing effects, if it does not help you your money will be given back to you without argument. Sold in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store—one of the more than 7,000 leading drug stores in the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

THE MEXICAN CONGRESS CONVENES AND HEARS HUERTA

His Annual Address Does Not Mention President Wilson or the United States.

Mexico City, Nov. 20.—Mexican flags were hoisted over all the public buildings in the Federal capital this afternoon. The Congress held a short preliminary session before the arrival of Provisional President Huerta, when the speaker, Eduardo Tamariz, formerly Minister of Public Instruction, formally declared open the second period of the 20th Mexican Congress.

Senator Tamariz is the Catholic deputy whose nomination as Minister of Public Instruction by Provisional President Huerta was opposed by the Lib and party in the last Congress, and this opposition was cited by Huerta in his previous defense of his action in dissolving Congress as one of the contributory causes to the step he had taken.

The selection as speaker is regarded as a further rebuke to the deputies of the old Congress imprisoned by Huerta.

The full text of Huerta's message to the Congress, which he read in person is as follows:

"In accordance with the Constitution and the provision governing this matter, the Executive of the Provisional Government reports to the National Assembly concerning the status of public affairs on two dates of the year corresponding to the two semi-yearly inaugurations of the ordinary sessions of Congress.

"Having complied with this law of means of the report read in this chamber on Sept. 18 last, and April 1 herein so far in advance in which the Executive must report to you upon the state of the country's affairs, it must readily be understood that this brief message cannot be of the usual character of these reports, but that it must confine itself to giving an account of the political events which have happened since Oct. 26 last, by virtue of a solemn promise given by myself. To the Nation and before the whole world, I say that the country is again on the straight, undeviating channel of the fundamental institutions of the Republic.

Work to Restore Peace.

"This has been done within a period of short time, notwithstanding its shortness, seen in relief before minute and not without the aid of the Government has been laboring to bring the duty and to restore the supremacy of law and peace in the midst of conditions which, without false modesty, we may say are sufficient to discourage the strongest spirit if it is not assisted by a great faith in right, justice and the destiny of the Fatherland.

"The organization of our political status having been laid on the basis of perfect equilibrium between the three powers through which our people exercise their sovereignty, it can easily be understood to what conflicts and extremes the slightest rupture or alteration of this equilibrium must necessarily lead us. This being understood, the Constitution has traced for each the power, province and proper legitimate action, to the end that each, by keeping invariably within its sphere, as three powers properly constituting our Government, and harmony of the whole, may be maintained without alteration.

"From the moment any of these three powers exceeds its province in its action it thereby necessarily transgresses upon the rights and sphere of the others, and it deeply disturbs the equilibrium of the whole and violates its constitutional function, thus placing in danger the stability of the state itself. Unless the invading power be rapidly and energetically brought back within its proper sphere of action, it must necessarily provoke from one or the other of the two powers a defensive action and energy which must be in keeping with the seriousness and frequency of the invasions which cause the provocation.

"This reaction is all the more necessary and helpful because, without a constitutional regime would disappear a situation like this the gravity of which cannot escape the knowledge of the representatives who are listening to me, was brought about in this country and before the Government under my charge in a manner so abrupt and abrupting from its ineffectiveness that the course of events could clearly be foretold.

Dissolution of Congress.

"I refer to the attitude, which must be fresh in the minds of all Mexicans of the Chambers of Congress, especially the Chamber of Deputies, in opposition to the two other constitutional powers, and principally against the Executive, the latter of whose action was so urgent and decisive in a moment that the Chamber of Deputies endeavored to prevent and weaken it systematically. The efforts of the part of the Executive to dissolve the Chamber of Deputies from the impudently intentions were successful. It proceeded regardless of the consideration that then to place an obstacle in the sphere of the action of the Executive was to menace the life of the Nation itself.

"The Executive, nevertheless, was not lacking in foresight, but understanding at once the point to which the attitude of the National Assembly was leading, tried by all possible means to avoid a conflict and to make late with the legislative that power, and that perfect cooperation without which all governmental action is impossible. He relinquished on more than one occasion as Executive his rights and prerogatives, resorting to numerous concessions in tentative and cautious efforts to bring about a full cooperation which became each day more impossible of attainment.

"Congress having become by the enabling of certain elements a centre of revolutionary activity, a sort of agency of the Northern rebels who with arms in hand, engaged in murder and plague. What is still worse, it went to the task of bleeding the Fatherland, with the effect of exposing it in its weakness and poverty to danger from abroad, and took the attitude of simply preventing action by the Government, invading aggressively not only the province of the judicial power but also that of the Executive. This it did in order to second, in manner described, the nefarious activity of the above mentioned rebels.

Resorted to Last Extreme.

"Having arrived at the critical point, the Government, under my charge, was placed in this dilemma: either to permit the Chamber of Deputies to be converted into a demagogical convention by abrogating the two other powers of Government—namely, the executive and the judicial—and to drag the country to an abyss of bloodthirsty anarchy, thus causing quickly the inevitable loss of our nationality, or as a legitimate defensive act in behalf of the public welfare, to act aside for a short time the so-called National Assembly and call the people to the polls in order that they, as a sovereign nation, might say the last word.

"Being unable to vacillate under such conditions, the Executive resorted to the last extreme measure and dissolved the Chambers, using in this doing, a necessary element of rigor which was needed under such delicate circumstances. He then convened the people to new elections, from which your power is elected.

"Executing the power under my charge, there is not the slightest doubt that from the viewpoint of the constitutional regime was not interrupted when the Chambers were dissolved, but that it was interrupted at the precise moment when they initiated their invasions against the rights of the other two powers.

"But even if this were not true, which it is, it always will be the left and noble act, and preferable in any case to preserve intact at the expense of the lives of persons the right and undeviating principles of good government.

"While the justice and utility of these acts may be the subject of controversy yet in the end they shall always be subject to the motto of the great Napoleon.

"The law is not violated when you save the Fatherland."

"Congress, having been dissolved

This cake, made by the Cottolene recipe, using only Cottolene for shortening, won the first prize three separate times at the Texas State Fair. Cottolene recipes are all winners, at home or elsewhere.

Cottolene

Remember, however, that you do not need to use as much Cottolene as you would of butter or lard. Always use one-third less when cooking with Cottolene, for Cottolene goes much farther.

You save money, any way you figure, if you cook with Cottolene, and your food is more wholesome and more digestible. If you will give Cottolene one fair trial, you will continue to use it for everything except on the table.

This is the recipe for the prize-winning cake, by Mrs. W. J. Stone, Dallas, Texas:

Three-fourths cup of Cottolene, 2 cups sugar, 3 cups flour, 1 cup milk, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 5 whites of eggs beaten to stiff froth, 2 teaspoons lemon extract. Cream 3-4 cup of Cottolene with sugar, add milk and flour alternately until well mixed, then add whites of eggs and extract. Grease tin and flour them; light the gas just as you place cakes in stove. Put all three layers in and cook at once. Let the cake cool an hour or so before icing.

FILLING—Two cups sugar and just enough water to moisten, cook until it threads from the spoon. Beat whites of 2 eggs to stiff froth, pour the boiling syrup over the whites and beat continuously, then add 1 teaspoonful of lemon extract and 1-2 packages shredded coconut, and ice your cake. If icing begins to get too stiff to ice add about 2 tablespoons of boiling water and beat well.

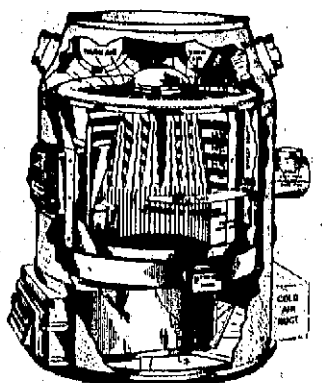

Give yourself the satisfaction of knowing what Cottolene can do. Order a pail of it from your grocer; also send to us for the interesting FREE Cook Book, HOME HELPS, written by five leading authorities. Write for it today

ADDRESSED NOTHERS' MEETING AT ASSEMBLY HALL

Over three hundred women were present at the Assembly hall at the high school building on Thursday afternoon and heard a very interesting talk by Dr. F. Howard Leachey of Boston, under the auspices of the Civic Club.

The meeting was the first of a series that are to be held during the winter months for the mothers and in fact the women of the city, and they had a most auspicious opening on Thursday afternoon for the address was of great interest to every woman present.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Mary L. Wood, the president, who, after briefly explaining the objects of the meetings and what it was hoped to accomplish introduced Dr. F. Howard Leachey of Boston.

Dr. Leachey prefaced his remarks with a short description of infantile paralysis and what people, as a rule, did not know about it. He stated that the disease was contagious without any doubt and described how patients should be kept from other inmates of the house. His talk was on general health and he dwelt at some length on the great need of care of the feet and attention to the proper dressing. He said that undoubtedly there were hundreds of the women in the audience whose feet were improperly dressed, for a woman or anybody else to have good health and do their best work it was very essential that their feet be dressed in a comfortable manner. He described the different troubles that come from improper shoes and among them the flat foot and broken arches, all due to abuse of the feet with too tight or too short shoes.

He also spoke of the prevailing styles of wearing heavy furs and with low neck waists etc. They were detrimental to the health of the women and it was small wonder that there was not more illness from this mode of dress. He spoke of the great reluctance to women of a proper walk, dress and general posture. He devoted considerable time to cancer and said he could not address any body of women without relating out the great danger that arises from the fact that women as a rule do not report symptoms of cancer to their physicians in time. He recalled the many cases of women who had come to him when it was just too late to save them, where as a short time before they would have been saved by operation. He explained the symptoms and how easily they were cured for if taken in the start.

Under the head of emergencies he gave a very interesting talk on what to do in all cases. He described the first aids in cases of burns, cuts, snake wounds etc., and dwelt especially on puncture wounds and wounds that would be liable to cause lock-jaw. At the conclusion of his talk, he was asked and answered a great many questions put to him by the audience. Dr. Leachey who is one of the most brilliant young surgeons of the country, made a fine impression. He is an able and interesting talker who seeks to make himself thoroughly understood. The next meeting will be on Dec. 12, when Dr. Leachey of Boston, professor of the theory and practice of medicine in Tufts College, will talk on the "Adolescent period of Childhood." This is a subject that will be of special interest to all parents and an even larger attendance than of Thursday is expected.

ENOUGH FILMS TO REACH AROUND THE WORLD

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—Twenty-five thousand miles of motion picture films, enough to stretch around the globe at the Equator, will be the export record of the United States in the calendar year 1913. The United States is the world's greatest manufacturer of motion picture films, probably three-fourths of the entire film of the world being manufactured in this country. Large quantities of films are sent out of the country, both as blank or unexposed films, and as finished films ready for use in the stereopticon.

The rapid increase in this branch of the export trade of the United States resulted in the establishment by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, of a detailed record which shows the quantity, measured by feet, and the value of films exported from the country; the plain films and those ready for use separately stated; the countries of destination, and the ports through which this distribution is made. This record shows a total exportation in the nine months ended with September of 65 1-2 million feet of unexposed or plain films to be used in other parts of the world in taking motion pictures, and 23 1-2 million feet of exposed or finished films ready for use in the stereopticon, making a total of 89 million feet during the period. For the single month of September, however, the total was 14, million feet, and should the remaining months of the year make a similar record, the total exports of the year which ends with next month would be 133 million feet, or slightly more than 25,000 miles, the distance around the earth at the Equator. In 1912, the first full calendar year for which figures are shown, the total length of films exported was 62 1-4 million feet, or less than half the prospective total of 1913.

The stated value of the films exported in the nine months ended with

September, 1913, is about 3 1-2 million dollars, being $1,811,000 for the 65 1-2 million feet of unexposed films and $1,056,000 for the 23 1-2 million feet of exposed films ready for use in the stereopticon, or an average of 2 3-4 cents per foot for the unexposed and of 7 cents per foot for the exposed films.

England is by far the largest purchaser of films from the United States, and this applies especially to the unexposed films. Of the 89 million feet of films of both classes exported in the fiscal year 1912, 79 million feet went to England, 5 1-3 million feet to Canada, a little over 1 million feet to France, three quarters of a million to the Philippines; over a half million to Brazil, nearly a half million to Newfoundland and Labrador, a quarter of a million to Australia, and slightly less than a quarter of a million to Japan. Most of the films going to Canada, Newfoundland, and the Philippines are exposed.

The importation of motion picture films amounts to a little more than a million feet per month, the total for the nine months ended with September 1913, being 10 1-4 million feet and for the corresponding months of 1912, 12 1-2 million feet. Nearly all of the imported films are in the finished state ready for use, the import prices averaging from 5 to 6 cents per foot. About one-half of the total importation is from France, which supplied approximately 7 million feet out of 14 1-2 million feet imported in the fiscal year 1912. Italy supplied 2 3-4 million feet, England, 2 1-3 million; and Denmark, 1 1-4 million; while $1,000 feet came from Japan and 87,000 feet from India.

LITERARY NOTES

The Most Important Year of the Century Magazine.

"The period through which we are living in its display of scientific accomplishment and changing social forces is the most broadly significant and humanly spectacular in the forty-three years of the existence of The Century Magazine," says an editorial in The Century.

Characteristics of the "New Spirit of the Century" are the genuinely important papers: Theodore Roosevelt on "The Progressive Party," Edna Kenton on "The Militant Women and Women," which gives the case for "feminists," and "The Modern Quest for a Religion," a serious and reverent study by Winston Churchill, author of "The Inside of the Cup," which will be a feature of the December Century.

In the February Century will be a prophetic trilogy by H. G. Wells, in which this modern prophet sees a possible and logical future that stills the imagination. The February number will be a "Short Story Number," and will contain a special group of stories by authors who are either celebrated already or likely to become so. Always a leader in the art field, The Century will continue to make a number of interesting experiments in various reproductive processes. With its corps of artist-engravers and its elaborate art department, The Century is able to get effects in full color and in "Century color-tone" that are impossible in less carefully printed and designed magazines.

In the comic department, "In Lighter Vein" The Century continues to prove that the best illustrators and the best writers are glad occasionally to turn to the lighter treatment of current topics.

BUSINESS METHODS

They are Changed Much for the Better.

Those of us who can look back 20 or 30 years see great changes in the world of machine building and selling, and while there has been almost a revolution in the cutting speeds, the kinds of machines used and the general method of building, there have also been as great changes in the methods of securing business. observes the editor of the American Machinist. Slowly but surely the old horse trading methods are disappearing, and more and more sales are being made on the merits of the article and its value to the man who is to use it more and to practice the principle that it is not necessary for a party of a transaction to be the loser; that unless both parties benefit the transaction is a failure.

Perhaps one of the most flagrant examples of unfair competition, of personal influence and substantial subsidies was in the field of railway appliances, and it is particularly gratifying to note the open dismantling of such methods at the last railroad convention.

Personality in selling goods is in other lines of business, counts for much and always will. But it is only real character that will count in the long run, and not the personality of being a deal game sport, or a jolly good fellow, with all that they have implied in the days gone by. The personality that counts is that which serves the customers by being honest and straightforward in all its dealings.

Another hopeful sign is that it seems impossible to hide unscrupulous deals in the line for long.

The one great truth that seems to stand out in all the changes is that the only safe course is the one which has nothing to hide. Nor is this as utopian as it sounds for the various trades and business organizations which have grown so strong in the past decade have thrived because they have proved the old idea of reciprocity to be wrong. The getting together of men of the same line of business has shown that competition may after all be decent and friendly and that there is nothing to be gained by the old idea of secrecy or attempted deceit as to machines, methods, or prices.

And no matter how much we may see to discourage us, the forward movement during the past twenty years has enough of improvement over the past to make us very hopeful for the future.—American Machinist.

OPERATION TO SAVE LIFE AFTER POISONING

New York, Nov. 20.—A surgical operation was performed in Fordham Hospital last night on Mrs. Agnes Pleasant of 499 East 184th street in an effort to save her from death by poisoning. The medical staff of the hospital hopes today for the woman's recovery.

This is the third operation of the kind performed in New York city in three weeks. The first failed to save the patient, an Italian woman, who was operated on in Bellevue. The second was performed on Mrs. Helen Jania, wife of Jacob A. Jania, an insurance broker of 50 Pelton avenue, West Brighton, S. I. Dr. A. H. Thomas was the surgeon and the operation was in the S. R. Smith Infirmary at Tamponville. Mrs. Jania is now well on the road to recovery.

Mrs. Pleasant, the third victim for whose benefit surgery was employed, took poisonous tablets on Monday, mistaking them for a headache remedy. As soon as the error was discovered she was removed to Fordham Hospital. There her condition became steadily worse.

Early last evening her kidneys had entirely ceased to perform their functions and death, apparently, was a question of only a few hours. The patient was informed of her condition and told that the new operation was her only hope. She asked that the operation be performed.

The surgeon in charge was Alexander Nichols, a member of the Fordham University faculty and a visiting surgeon of the hospital staff. Mrs. Pleasant's kidneys were uncovered and the hard capsule, or outer covering of the organs, was taken off, cleaned and then replaced. She was on the operating table from 9:30 last night until 12:30 this morning.

Although still in a very serious condition, Mrs. Pleasant was considered by the surgeons to have a chance to live, as, in their opinion, the operation was a success.

The principle of the operation, which was thus performed, for the third time is not new in surgery, having been applied with varying success in cases of bright disease.

If Mrs. Pleasant recovers it is probable that the operation will hereafter become the usual mode of procedure in all the hospitals of the city in similar cases.

SCAPIAS BROUGHT BACK FROM BOSTON

Augustus Scapias, the Italian who was arrested in Boston for the local police and found to be carrying a loaded revolver, was brought back to this city by Deputy G. H. Ducker on Thursday evening.

Had Lung Trouble and Expected to Die

With the afflicted world anxiously seeking a specific for Lung Trouble, the number of recoveries brought about through the use of Eckman's Alternative, a medicine for Throat and Lung Troubles, is attracting universal attention. For fifteen years Eckman's Alternative has been used, and the reports of recoveries in truly supposed hopeless cases indicate that this medicine is doing a vast amount of good. Read this:

"Gentlemen: I was taken sick in November, 1908, with a very bad cold and dry cough. The doctor then pronounced my case as Measles Fever. I grew steadily worse. Had two convulsions and had fever and chills. I was told that my case was hopeless, only one way to live. My physician had tried most all kinds of treatment and none did me any good. So he asked my husband if he objected to his trying a proprietary medicine. So I began your Eckman's Alternative. I was in bed from November 20, 1908, until February 25, 1909, and was thought dying several times. Today I am healthy and feel stronger than ever."

(Signed) MRS. H. K. BRILEY.
(Address substituted; name on request.)
Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe Throat and Lung Affections, such as: Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Croup, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Asthma, Emphysema, and all conditions of the Throat, Lungs and Bronchial Tubes. Contains no narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman's Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for evidence.
